TERRITORIAL.

From our Exchanges.

The Silver King (of Pinal) shipped, this week, 22,600 lbs. of concentrations.

There have been heavy washouts, on both the Florence and Phoenix roads, and teams have consequently been delayed.

The peach crop at Phoenix is very large this year, and it is probable that some of the fruit will go to waste. A cannery is consequently talked of.

The Tombstone typos have organized a typographical union. The scale of wages is as follows: Per 1000 ems, 60c.; per hour 60c.; per week of 60 hours $27.

It is reported that the humanitarians of the East are trying to bring about a revocation of the order assigning Gen. Crook to Arizona, to relieve General Wilcox.

The Philadelphia Mining Journal says that there are 5,110 men employed in the copper mines of Graham County, Arizona. As the census gives Graham County a total population of 4,229 only, this statement appears to be "watered."

The coal camp at Deer creek is reported to be in a lively and prosperous condition. The work of development is being vigorously pushed on the Bonanza mine, the main shaft being now down to a depth of 120 feet, all in good solid coal.

The judiciary of the Territory has been formed anew, and Chief Justice French is the only member left of our old Bench. He is the subject of complimentary allusion, not only by the press and people of Arizona, but by the papers of the East, for his clear and sound decisions.

A remarkable strike is reported in the Copper Queen mine at Bisbee. A body of ore, a wonder in richness and quantity, has been struck at the 300 foot level. It consists of red oxides and native copper, and averages seventy per cent. It is at present forty feet wide and not crossed yet.

It is beginning to dawn on the citizens of Globe at last that a wagon road from that place to Casa Grande, via Florence, would be better, safer and seventy miles shorter than the Wilcox route. They will have only about three miles of road to build to open this route and are now preparing to move in the matter.

The damage and loss to the Southern Pacific Railroad from washouts is but trivial thus far, as compared with that of last year. The furthest eastern point of the washouts is a short distance beyond Wilcox, and that is slight. The worst point is near Maricopa, but is nothing as compared with those a year ago.

The total property valuation of Pinal county, for 1882, not including the one million dollars railroad mortgage, is $1,500,000. The rate of taxation is 2 cents and 6 mills, and increase in property valuation since '81 is about 400,000, a very creditable showing, considering the number of backsets the county has received during the time, from Indian scares and other causes.

Capt. Hardy, who has just returned from a trip to the Needles, says the bottoms below Fort Mohave are swarming with grasshoppers. He describes them as being a new specie and entirely different from the grasshoppers of Kansas. They are as large as a man's finger, with large wings of a green color, and are stripping the trees of their foliage. By September 1st, Mr.

Hardy thinks, every green thing along the Colorado river will have been consumed and the myriad swarms of grasshoppers will emigrate.

During a terrific storm which was raging at Bisbee Wednesday night, a tall tree growing on the summit of the mountain was struck by lightning. The subtle fluid ignited the tree, which burst into a flame from top to bottom and burned brilliantly in dense darkness for nearly half an hour. The pillar of the fire was gazed at by the entire population, and is described as presenting a singular weird and beautiful spectacle.

Buchupaiba.

Stinging, smarting irritation of the urinary passages, diseased discharges, cured by Buchupaiba $1. at druggists. Arizona Depot J. J. MACK, San Francisco, Cal.

A young lady admitted to her mother that her bean had kissed her on the cheek. "And what did you do?" asked the old lady in tones of indignation. "Mother," said the young lady. "I cannot tell a lie—I turned the other cheek."

Married Flirts.

A jealous man with a pretty wife who will flirt is in a very unenviable condition. Of what use is it to forbid her to go to this or that place, or to speak to such and such young men. Either she will boldly refuse to obey him, or she will promise only to deceive. To watch her day and night is manifestly impossible. The husband must occasionally go down town, and the moment his back is turned the wife is at liberty. He may hire a man to watch her in his absence, but as the man who can be hired to watch a wife is necessarily open to bribery, he will certainly be bribed by the wife or her friends. The Turk is enabled to calm his jealousy by keeping his wives locked up; but there is no American wife living who, if locked up in the third-story back room, could not contrive to escape within fifteen minutes after her husband's departure from the house. Among certain tribes of savages the husband breaks the wife's nose, or in some other equally effective way, renders her no longer attractive to young men; but these wretched heathens have never heard of the proverb concerning the folly of biting off—or otherwise disfiguring—one's wife's nose in order to spite one's personal face. If some association of philanthropic business men were to fit up a safe-deposit office, where wives could be left whenever their husbands were absent from home, jealous men could feel a reasonable confidence in the permanency of their domestic happiness; but the experiment is yet to be tried. Various crude and unsatisfactory schemes for the prevention of flirting on the part of married women have been tried from time to time. There was a man in Iowa who cut off his wife's beautiful yellow hair, on the pretext that it was a vain and unchristian adornment of her person, but really in order to prevent her from receiving visitors until the hair should grow again. This, however, seriously impaired his wife's value, and was merely a modification of the savage nose-breaking process. Another man—a Chicago person—constantly spread abroad rumors that his wife was suffering from diphtheria or scarlet fever; but finding that there were young men who could not be thus terrified, he finally contrived to have her inoculated with the small pox. For about a week he enjoyed the success of his ingenious plan, but at the end of that time his wife died, putting him to the expense of a funeral and the annoyance of being without a wife for nearly five months.

Two lovers were out for a morning walk in the leafy aisles of a New Jersey forest. The birds sang blithely upon the boughs, and early sunshine quaffed the dew from the grass and petals, and all nature seemed to rejoice like a bride on her wedding day. The maiden gathered violets, arbutus and cowslips, while he gathered what he supposed to be a white kilted that had taken refuge in the stump of a long-departed tree. Miserable fate! Strange catastrophe! Unhappy man! Referring to the incident afterward in a letter to a friend, the maiden wrote: "If George were boiled for a thousand years in the hot springs of Iceland, I don't believe he'd ever smell sweet again."

The colored voters are beginning to understand politics as well as, if not better, than most white voters. Their natural disposition to lie and steal, as crops out in the cases of Whittaker and Flipper, is of great advantage to them during a political campaign. One of the candidates for an office at the municipal election in Austin, not long since, relied on the fidelity of an old family servant to help him out among the colored voters. The candidate was beaten. After the election he was told that the colored political friend had voted against him. He did not believe it; but meeting him one day, the ex-candidate said:

"I'll give you a dollar, Jim, to tell me whom you voted for."
"I voted agin you, boss."
"Well, here is the dollar for your candor."

"Look heah, boss, ef yer am gwine ter pay for de candor, I mout as well own up I voted agin yer free different times. Free dollars moah, if you please."
—Texas Siftings.

Skinny Men.

Wells, Health Renewer, greatest remedy on earth for impotence, leemnes, sexual debility, &c. $1 at druggists. Arizona Depot, J. J. MACK, San Francisco, Cal.

The amount of ore in sight is estimated from measuring the cubic contents of a block of ground exposed by shafts and drifts. For example: A shaft is sunk 100 feet, and drifts run on the vein for a like distance. If the vein is exposed on the surface, so that samples can be taken, the three sides of the block can be measured and assayed, and the quantity of ore computed. It is usual to deduct one-third of the total thus obtained for pinches and barren spots in the vein. Some engineers insist upon an exposure of four sides, and then make an allowance for shrinkage. To ascertain the weight of a cubic foot of ore or rock, make a wooden box exactly one foot square, line it with tin and graduate it with inches. Fill it with broken ore or rock and weigh it; then fill it with water, remove the rock, and note the number of inches of water. This will enable you to ascertain the weight of the solid foot of ore. For example: The weight of broken rock is 100 pounds; the amount of water is three inches; you have therefore weighed only nine inches of a solid foot, and should add one-third of weight to correct total, that is 133½ pounds.

"No, this town has never recovered from the war," said the Virginian, as he crossed his legs and looked up and down the deserted street.

"Was it burned?"
"No."
"Any of its people killed off?"
"No."

"Have any great manufacturing establishments been removed?"

"We never had any to remove."
"Any epidemic frightened the people away?"

"Not as I know of."
"Then why it is that the town has never recovered from the war?"

"Well, some lay it to this and some to that, but it's my opinion that what ails this town is the fact that a man will come here from New York and peck around and ask question and want to know all about everything and everybody, and never ask a leading citizen if he is dry. I tell you such a line of policy, if pursued for ten or fifteen years, takes the ambition right out of men."—N. Y. News.
